

Ελληνικά English Español Italiano Français Català Deutsch Português Srpskohrvatski Türkçe Nederlands Svenska عربي

Categories

- Analysis
- Announcements – Events
- Counter-information
- Bulletin
- News
- Posters
- Proclamations
- Publications
- Videos – Multimedia

« Athens: Three of the February 12th arrestees are still held in the police headquarters!

Istanbul: Commemoration of Beyazit and Halabja massacres »

Croatia: Eighth Anarchist Bookfair in Zagreb – bookfair program & short report by a3yo

Issues

- Antimilitarism
- Arts – Culture
- Ecology – Health
- Education
- History – Theory
- Labour
- Migration – Antifascism
- Prisons – Detention
- Repression
- Uncategorized

Tags

anarchist prisoners

Search

Archive

Counter-information

- 325
- a-infos
- act for freedom now
- anarchistnews.org
- anarkismo
- athens indymedia
- avtonom.org [russia]
- bite back
- crimethinc
- disaccords
- hidup biasa [indonesia]
- indybay
- indymedia uk
- montréalcounter
- news.infoshop
- no political repression [usa]

anarchists antifascism April arrests arson attack Athens August banner call for international solidarity CCF Chile counter-information
 counter-violence court crisis
 december demonstration
 direct action Europe eviction FAI-FRI February gathering
 general strike Germany Greece greek prisons
 hunger strike immigrants imprisoned members of the R.O. CCF international call for solidarity Italy January June Koridallos prisons Latin America liberated spaces March mass media May murder nazi scum November
 october police brutality police raid police repression political persecutions political prisoners political trial pre-trial
 incarceration prison abolition prisoners' struggle resistance Revolutionary Struggle self-organization September slogan solidarity spain squats
 state terrorism Thessaloniki
 urban guerrilla warfare

The Eighth Anarchist Bookfair in Zagreb will take place from March 30th to April 1st, 2012

Bookfair program

Friday, March 30th, 2012

15:00 – 21:00
 (gallery Nova, Teslina 7, see MAP)

Bookfair – come and check the books of different publishers, free materials from various groups, newspapers, magazines...

16:00 – 17:00
 (gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Radical activism or struggle for equality

Discussion is organized by group Stop specizmu.

Key points of lecture will be: What are animal rights? What is speciesism? Basic of animal rights, non-speciesist activism, welfarist activism, direct liberation of animals.

Lecture will be based on basic theory of animal rights, veganism as movement and it's connection with other social movements and discriminations, and on most important aspect of it which can bring about change – non-speciesist activism.

the political repression [usa]
 occupied london [greece]
 resistra
 sabotagemedia
 squat.net
 takku [finland]
 tameio [greece]
 vast minority
 war on society
 zone à défendre

Library

'til it breaks [usa]
 act for freedom now [ii]
 act for freedom now [i]
 against the waiting aiming further-striking better
 anarchist international anarchist yellow pages
 anarchy and chaos
 anarchy in italy
 anarchy101 q&a anarkistan
 angry news from around the world
 arachnia [switzerland]
 aragorn [usa]
 asimetris [indonesia]
 autonomous nottingham
 beyond resistance
 birdsbeforethestorm
 black blocg [russia]
 black february
 black international editions
 bloom0101
 break all chains
 ccf case
 chile bolivia walmapu
 conspiracy cells of fire

After short lecture there will be discussion on activities of animalist groups and our relation to other animals, and how to create better world for all its inhabitants – human and non-human.

17:30 – 19:00

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

History of anarchism in our region

Anarchist history of our region was rich and very dynamic in some periods of time, activities were developing in cooperation and with influence from other countries, while lively communication was important, as well as exchange of ideas. There were publishing projects, newspapers, protests were organized, actions, even assassinations, and influence of anarchists and anarchism on culture was great.

Still, anarchist history of this region is mostly unknown, informations are not available or are just small details in various sources. We can't say that there was always continuous activity, but anarchist ideas were always present, no matter how great obstacles were there, being dictatorship, wars, bans...

Discussion that we would like to start on history is has aim to give short overview of some key events, but also to open discussion on problem of writing history, sources, how is that history connected in region where we share language, culture and history itself, which never happened isolated within this or that borders that changed so often, but never managed to stop spreading and development of anarchist ideas.

What we would like to discuss, in different historical times, is relation to different currents in First International, question of national liberation, relation to Marxism and Russian socialism, relation to industrialization and development of modern society, and one focus would be why anarchism never developed in mass movement and what caused spread of Marxism.

19:00 – 20:00

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Assassinator's shots – Jelena Ilka Markovic i Luka Jukic – two sketches for portrait

History is written by the victors, so it's not surprise that some events stay hidden, mainly those that almost killed those "victors". Two sketches for portrait of "failed" assassins from former Yugoslav region, shots aimed at rulers – that missed it's target – give us idea that, if they didn't miss, they would change course of history. If they didn't miss, she, Serbian assassinator conspiracy

continual war
continual war [old]
counter olympics network
dark nights
digital elephant
direct action [greece]
dissenting voices [asia]
eagainst
enkidu
fear to sleep
fear to sleep [old]
fires never extinguished
fitwatch [uk]
flyingtheory [thessaloniki]
fotia sta kelia
from here on in [bristol]
from russia with love grecja w ogniu [poland]
grey coast [usa]
guerrilla news
individualist anarchism
indonesian intifada
internacionala [turkey]
italy calling
kate sharpley library
la semilla negra
let the olympics die
machete [en]
machorka
negasi [indonesia]
negasi [old]
on the greek riots [belarus/russia]
onsite.infoshop [philippines]
polisson [france]
porcupine blog
prison island uk
pugetsoundanarchists
quiver distro

Jelena Ilka Markovic, and he, young student from Sarajevo, Luka Jukic, wouldn't end up forgotten in dust of historical archives. Two portraits of determinant assassigators, viewed in context of political situation in Serbia at the end of 19th century and Croatia at the beginning of 20th century, give us different perspective on known history.

20:00

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

SVAKI TRK-KORAK – nad(za)zorni video rad

Video dealing with surveillance, cameras and control.

Saturday, March 31st, 2012

10:00 – 15:00

(square of Nikola Subic Zrinski)

Bookfair moves on the square and in case of bad weather, it stays in gallery.

15:00 – 20:00

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Bookfair come and check the books of different publishers, free materials from various groups, newspapers, magazines...

16:00 – 16:30

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Recent anarchist movements in Estonia and upcoming BAM (Baltic Anarchist Meeting)

16:30 – 17:30

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

The Network(ed) Revolution: Information and Communication Technologies and Social Movements

We live in an age of fast and fundamental changes. Since the 1990s, capitalism and the western model of parliamentary democracy powered by globalization and information and communication technologies have first entered the Eastern Bloc, then Far East, and now they are slowly but surely questioning totalitarian regimes in the Arab world. We also live in the age of the network. According to Castells, the Internet is the fabric of our lives. If information technology is the present-day equivalent of electricity in the

rabid proletarians
radar online agenda
raf baader-meinhof
[poland]
recollection books
revolutionary struggle case
rioters
robert graham
rs case
salé [prague]
sanhati [india]
santiasko anarquista
saranabavi [farsi]
schengendangle
scurvy tunes
shelter of crime [hungary]
social rupture
solidarios [athens]
solidarity now
sosyal savař [turkey]
sound the alarm [london]
sprout anarchist collective squ@t!net [old]
squatting museum [australia]
stencil archive
struggles in italy
subprole
sue et cendres
sumac centre [nottingham]
tabula rasa
tempest
the anarchist encyclopedia
the anarchist library
this is our job
this is our job [old] TPTG
třidní válka [czech] turbellaria

industrial era, in our age the Internet could both be linked to the electrical grid and the electric engine because of its ability to distribute the power of information throughout the entire realm of human activity (2001: 1).

Of course there is another side of the change, related to data-collection, more and more intensive observation and technically more massive equipped control units, like military robots and intensified border control. In a general theoretical plane, it is obvious that information and communication technologies play a crucial role in the outcome of the contemporary social movements. The big question, that equally interests everyone involved in struggles throughout the globe regardless their political and social programs, is how.

This discussion will explore the ways that information and communication technologies can be used for political activity, and highlight the main controversies. Depending on participant interest, the explored topics can range from complex political issues such as ACTA, through organization of Arab Spring riots using Web 2.0 tools, to web publishing organizations such as stocitas and individual efforts.

Discussion organizers:

Petar Jandric (Zagreb, Croatia), anarchist academic and activist, predominantly interested in the relationships between anarchism, technologies and education.

A3yo (Hamburg, Germany), anarchist academic and activist, runs an anarchist blog, an archive of Eastern Europe material (zines and other d.i.y. media), and a small irregular distro.

References:

Castells, M. (2001). The Internet galaxy: reflections on the Internet, business, and society (1st ed.). Oxford: Oxford University Press.

17:30 – 18:30

(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Direct Action and Raid On Reykjavik Reloaded

Short movie (Raid On Reykjavik Reloaded, 2012, 35 minutes) shot in a beautiful exteriors of the Iceland capital Reykjavik and its surroundings. It tells a story of one of the biggest ecotage (ecological sabotage) in the history: on November 6, two activists of the movement for animal liberation sunk two whaling boats in Reykjavik harbour and destroyed whale processing factory. Both manage to securely leave the country. Besides significant economical damage to whaling industry they manage to focus international attention on the

untorelli press
vagabond theorist
zine library

Migration/Antifa

antiracist action
asoe assembly [athens]
calais migrant solidarity
clandestina [greece]
frontexplode.eu
getting the voice out hungerstrike300
no-racism.net
protest uchodźców [poland]
w2eu [greece]
w2eu.info

Various associations

abahlali [south africa]
ABC Belarus
ABC Berlin
ABC Brighton
ABC Guelph
ABC Leeds
AFED UK [links]
anarchist union [cyprus]
bulgarian prisoners
CAPS [uk]
common cause [canada]
four star [usa]
free wallmapu
IAF/IFA
IWA-AIT
MAS [usa]
MST [brazil]
NAASN
red aid international whaling issue. The movie focuses both on reasons, preparations and executing of action as well as on its consequences and the state of the whaling now.

The whole movie was done on the DIY principle with no sponsors and no grants. Original music for the movie was composed and recorded by members of the international political hardcore scene.

Directed and shot by Jan Hanus, author of Squat Wars and Food Not Bombs – Solidarity in Praxis

After the movie:

We do not want people just sit and watch. What we want is to talk about the thing in the movie, discuss. The illegal act that the movie is about raises the question of effectiveness and legitimacy of direct action which could be one of the subject of it.

18:30 – 20:00
(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Fukushima – one year later

Sunday, April 1st, 2012

10:00 – 15:00
(gallery Nova, Teslina 7)

Bookfair – come and have coffee or tea, look for the book you missed the previous days, and spend your Sunday morning in a pleasant company... That would be the closure of the 8th Anarchist Bookfair.

During whole bookfair there will be exhibition:
Predrag Pavic i Marko Vojnic Gin: Two artists

source / more info ask-zagreb

short report on anarchist bookfair in zagreb

March 18th, 2012 | Tags: anarchist bookfair, Croatia, edition, Zagreb | Categories: Announcements – Events, Arts – Culture, Posters

the anarchist association
the commune [uk]
workers solidarity movement [ireland]
zabalaza [south africa]
zspwawa [poland]

Leave a Reply

Name

Email

Website

You can use these HTML tags

Post Comment

Contra Info 2013